50X1-HUM

1. EM of the 4th Gds. Mecz. Army wore black shoulder boards with red piping. Their branch of service was indicated by the following insignia:
 - a. Quartermaster: hammer, sickle and a red star,
 - b. Transportation: wheel and wing
 - c. Artillery: crossed guns.
 2. Officers of combat arms wore gold shoulder boards with silver stars, plus the insignia of their branch; officers of quartermaster units wore silver shoulder boards with gold stars and the quartermaster insignia, i.e., a hammer, sickle and red star.
 3. [] regulations governing the shoulder boards of artillery troops assigned to a rifle regiment [] they would wear either the artillery shoulder boards (black with red piping) or those of the infantry (red shoulder boards with black piping). The deciding factor [] was whether the army they were in was classified as mechanized or rifle. In the 4th Gds. Mecz. Army, [] officers had gold shoulder boards with silver stars, silver crossed guns, red piping, and red rank stripes (one for company officers and two for field grade officers).
